"JOKERS" IN LIGHT FRANCHISE, IS CHARGE; BLOW AT THE WEST PENNCouncil Gives Rivals a Club Over Home Corporation in Ordinance With Generous Provisions.*NOT CERTAIN CITY WILL PROFIT*Flaws in Ordinance are Pointed Out, Showing Borough is at Mercy of Promoters Interested in New Concern; Wheeling Fight Back of It.

That the borough of Connellville has given a merchantable franchise to enemies of the West Penn system, which they can use as a club over the home corporation, with virtually no restraint, is the opinion of a citizen who has given electric light and power facilities as they exist in Western Pennsylvania. That a franchise has been granted in the face of the fact that there is no demand for additional electric light and power facilities in the coke region; and that the franchise itself is so full of "jokers" as to put the borough virtually at the mercy of an unknown corporation for 50 years to come, is his further startling declaration.

The ordinance, which was rushed through council last Thursday evening and hastily approved the next morning by Burrows J. L. Evans is said to be one of the most remarkable and easily obtainable franchises ever awarded by a Pennsylvania borough. That the ordinance was not carefully prepared or considered, this man declares, is shown by rather remarkable provisions.

"That franchise was obtained to sell," he declared. "It certainly was not obtained for the purpose of giving Connellville a legitimate competitive lighting service. It was the duty of philanthropists to not let that franchise be a club to be used on the West Penn."

It has been learned that the mysterious interests behind J. George Kaehler, the Rochester promoter, allied with the American Gas & Electric Company and this big concern is just now attempting to prevent the West Penn from entering the Wheeling territory. Although the West Penn now holds franchises, both for light, power and transportation, and has absorbed five business practices in Wheeling and its suburbs, The American Gas & Electric Company has no interests there. They are, however, operating in that general neighborhood, and claim the Wheeling field for their very own.

In order to force the West Penn to give up the properties it has acquired by the expenditure of thousands of dollars, and thereby obtain a monopoly of the field, this concern has used the Connellville Town Council as a pawn in the game, hoping by the threat of competition at home, to force the West Penn out of a rich field it is just developing.

The lighting expert who has studied the field probably more carefully than any other man, and whose experience in franchises has been considerable, points out the many jokers in the ordinance which council has passed, and which is approved by the burgess. There are three jokers in the ordinance, upon Mr. Kaehler or his associates to ever make use of the ordinance, and that the borough is given virtually no control over the proposition is his rather startling assertion. Mr. Kaehler has been given a franchise which is good for 50 years after it is accepted. He does not have to accept it until he gets word and ready.

In the very first section of the ordinance there is no obligation imposed that the new concern shall build a plant here. There is no even the requirement that it shall furnish current to any resident of the borough who demands it. The new company, under the franchise it has been granted, can serve one person with electricity, if it so desires, and cannot be given no authority to insist upon a further extension of such service, excepting the $1,000 worth of current a year which is to be supplied through the borough buildings. This free current is now being supplied by the West Penn company.

file their bond and accept the franchise. The probability of a public utilities commission which would have the power to regulate rates is another reason advanced by those who believe that a competing light plant is not a necessity for the community. It is pointed out that, in event the new company found its rates were not sufficient to meet expenses, it could appeal to the commission and be permitted to charge higher rates than their contract calls for, regardless of the franchise stipulation.

That the rates have not been made public and are not a part of the franchise ordinance proper, is an unusual proceeding. It is said that some councilmen who voted for the measure did not know what rates were provided. A prominent banker, discussing the subject today, advanced the belief that the granting of the franchise was ill-advised.

"I cannot see that any real good will result for the community. I believe that this franchise was obtained for the sole purpose of being used as a club over the West Penn. There is no reason why Connellville should not be friendly to the West Penn in every way. Its main power plant, its offices and its shops are located here. The payroll in Connellville alone is several times that of any independent lighting concern would have, if it is ever built. The West Penn service is generally satisfactory and the rates reasonable. If the company is charging too much for its service, I have never heard any complaints about it."

DIES IN WESTEdward Hickey of West Side, Succumbs in Kansas City.

Edward Hickey, a well-known resident of the West Side, died yesterday morning in St. Margaret's Hospital, Kansas City, Kan. The body will arrive here at 10 A. M. tomorrow and will be removed to the family residence on Eleventh street, Greenwood.

Mr. Hickey, accompanied by his wife, left seven weeks ago for Denver, Col., for the benefit of his health but on his arrival at Kansas City, his condition could not permit him to continue the trip. Mrs. Hickey was at his bedside when death came. Mr. Hickey resided at Dawson for a number of years, prior to his coming to Greenwood. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias and several other organizations.

He had a wide host of friends in Connellville and Dawson. He married Miss Anastasia Hickey who with the following children survive: Dennis Hickey of Mountont; Margaret, Joseph, Kathryn, Nellie, Robert, all at home; a sister, Mrs. Robert Wilson of Cleveland, O., and a nephew, William Hickey, who makes his home with the Hickey family, also survive.

USES A KNIFEMontague Cuts Foreigner During Argument but is Freed.

Following an argument under the Young bridge yesterday afternoon, a party of four foreigners followed Robert Montague into a Water street hotel where they attacked him. One of the moles, Montague pulled a knife from his pocket and stabbed one of his assailants, cutting the foreigner's left hand so badly that he required the services of a physician. Dr. E. B. Edie dressed the wound, using seven stitches to close the gap.

Montague was arrested and taken to the lockup, where he was confined for a few hours. He said that the Italians surrounded him, starting an argument. He told them to leave him alone, they became more annoying and he made his way to the other end of the bar. They followed him and then attacked him. The stabbing followed. The injured man is Joseph Augustino.

Chief of Police George Hetzel investigated the case, and finding that Montague's story was correct, discharged him.

BOYS TOLD TO GOSuspected as Burglars. They are Warned Out of Town.

Two youngsters suspected of attempting to break into a house at 611 Gibson avenue last night, were arrested and arraigned before Burgess J. L. Evans this morning. The prisoners said their homes were in Baltimore and gave the names of Samuel Griffin and F. H. Hutchison.

Patrolmen Barney and Butt and Night Watchman William Hiltner were called to the Gibson avenue house last night in response to a telephone message to the effect that burglars were trying to enter the house through a window. When they got there, they found Hutchison and Griffin sleeping on a nearby bank.

The defendants pled not guilty of the charge and Burgess Evans warned them to leave town in a hurry.

LEGISLATURE EXPECTS TO END ITS SESSION TOMORROWStatewide Primary and Workmen's Compensation Bills Likely to be Lost in the Rush.

United Press Telegram.
HARRISBURG, June 25.—Senate leaders decided today that, unless the session in the evening is too heavy, they will report out the House resolution fixing tomorrow as the day of final adjournment.

The passage of the public utilities bill is expected today, and it is likely that the House will accept the Senate amendments. No assurance has been given that action will be taken on the statewide primary bill or the workmen's compensation bill. The child labor bill will probably go over. Senator Judson this morning at the request of B. R. Hart, district attorney of Greene county, presented a statement setting forth that Timothy Ross, S. Scott and J. M. Nueley, county commissioners of Greene county, had been indicted by the grand jury for illegal actions, and recommended that removal from office. Senator Judson asked that testimony be taken and if the three men are found guilty, that Governor Tener remove them.

HENEY HURRIES WESTGraft Prosecutor is on Way to Coast to Take Up Cases.

United Press Telegram.
SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—The broadside John L. McNab promised to fire as soon as the President accepted his resignation as United States District Attorney is expected this afternoon.

McNab is straightening up affairs in his office, and is preparing to turn over pending cases to his successor, Francis J. Heney is on his way from Chicago to Los Angeles and it has been impossible to get in telegraphic communication with him. It is understood, however, that President Wilson has asked the former graft prosecutor to act as special representative for the government in the cases pending against the Western Fuel Company and the Diggs-Carnegie white slave cases.

FEUDISTS DIE IN FLAMESThey Struggle as Fire Spreads and Cuts off Escape.

United Press Telegram.
LIMA, O., June 25.—Fighting like wild men, Vito Staphano and Joseph Seltip, Italian feudists, were burned to death here this morning in a fire started by one of them in a boarding house. A half dozen other persons living in the building narrowly escaped with their lives.

Staphano, seeking revenge for a fabled wrong, entered the bedroom of Seltip while the latter was sleeping, and set Seltip's bed clothing afire with a lighted torch. Seltip awoke and grappled with his fellow countryman, and in their excitement neither of the men noticed the blaze until it was too late to escape from the building.

SLAYS WIFE AND CHILDREN.Man Becomes Enraged Because Woman Bulks Suicide Plan.

United Press Telegram.
BUDAPEST, June 25.—When his wife cut him down after he had attempted to commit suicide by attacking a rope to his neck, John Selek, provisional tax collector, became so enraged that he shot and killed the woman and also killed his four small children.

The man had not been acting rationally for several days. Not understanding his difficulty, Mrs. Selek watched him continually and when he tried to take his life, she secured a large knife and cut the rope. Her own death followed.

BANKERS TO PROTEST.Wilson Currency Bill Does Not Meet Favor With Them.

United Press Telegram.
WASHINGTON, June 25.—Objections of bankers affiliated with the American Bankers Association to the proposed Wilson currency bill were heard this afternoon or tonight by President Wilson.

Senators Glass and Owens will meet with the President to hear the bankers' side of the currency question as presented by George M. Reynolds, president of the Commercial National Bank of Chicago; John Perrin of Los Angeles and A. Barton Hepburn.

JUVENILE COURT.Boy Burglars are Given a Mild Sentence by Judge Van Swearingen.

UNIONTOWN, June 25.—After conferring to robbery three Brownsville stores, William Cline was sentenced in court yesterday to serve 48 hours in jail and Lawrence Sorino got half that time. The hearing was held in juvenile court before Judge Van Swearingen. Cleo Buckner of Mount Sterling was arraigned for the shooting of Mike Marini with an air rifle. He was discharged. In the case of Dominic Lario, Tony Carroll and Louie Marlole, charged with throwing stones the boys were discharged.

State Bar to Choose Officers.
CAPE MAY, N. J., June 25.—Election of officers was the all absorbing topic at the second session of the Pennsylvania Bar Association this morning. Hamilton L. Carson, former attorney general, is in line for the presidency, succeeding Judge George Crelady of Huntington.

Mexican Rebel Advancing.
EL PASO, June 25.—Marching at the head of 400 men, General Francisco Villa is today approaching Mesquite Planes on his way to Juarez to attack the federalists under command of General Castro.

6 DEAD IN BUFFALO EXPLOSION; POLICE SEEK MORE BODIESToll of Fatalities Will Run Much Higher, Police Estimate.*172 WERE IN THE BUILDING*Most of Them Escaped, But it is Feared Many More Bodies Will be Taken From the Debris; Fire Causes the Rescuers to Make Slow Progress.

United Press Telegram.
BUFFALO, June 25.—Until police and firemen are able to complete their search through the ruins, the number of dead among the 172 persons known to have been in the buildings of the Husted Milling Company, in which an explosion occurred yesterday afternoon, will not be known.

Up to 9 o'clock six were known to be dead. The body of one man was removed from the feed and grain building at 7 o'clock, and another man died at the Mercy Hospital as the result of injuries. Of the 57 persons injured, physicians the California assistant fire chief Murray this morning placed the number of dead still in the building at 18.

The known dead are John Conroy, aged 61, Nickel Plate engineer; Henry Zetter, 45, mill foreman; Michael Kling, 40; Anthony Krueger, 30; William Wildesky, 41, and an unidentified man.

The passengers on Nickel Plate train No. 6, which was passing the building at the time of the explosion, were permitted to leave the hospitals this morning. They were injured by flying pieces of glass.

Following the explosion the building caught fire, and fire engines were called to pump water on the blaze all night. The flames were not turned off until early this morning, when the last burning ember had died.

Fire Chief Ragen this morning took charge of the company's pay rolls and started severance money for the victims. It will take several days before this work is completed.

Edward M. Husefeld, president of the company owning the buildings this morning estimated the loss at $500,000, which is fully covered by insurance.

GETTYSBURG PLANSConnellville Veterans Learn Where They Will be Stationed.

During the annual reunion at Gettysburg the William F. Katz Post No. 194 Grand Army of the Republic will have headquarters at 328, 312, 314, Second street east. Some of the Connellville delegation will leave for Gettysburg on Sunday night while others will not leave until Monday. Camp opens on Sunday night.

Henry Dick of Carbon, Pa., of the 16th Pennsylvania Cavalry, will arrive in Connellville either today or tomorrow and will be held to meet any of his comrades in Connellville.

Major General David M. Gregg, the only surviving cavalry general, will have his headquarters at the Hotel Hotel at Gettysburg.

VETERANS ARRIVING.Several Hundred Veterans March on Gettysburg Today.

GETTYSBURG, June 25.—Several hundred veterans the vanguard of the 7,000 coming here from Philadelphia to attend the celebration, arrived here this morning with members of the state commission to arrange for the arrival of their fellows.

Arrangements were completed this morning for the working of 14 information bureaus, which are distributed about the battle field. The field has been lined with telephone wires.

HOW TO WIN OUT.

What the Boy Who Wishes to Become Successful Should Do.
The young chap who starts his business career and his savings account at the same time is the young fellow who is going to be a financial success. While he is learning the business he is also laying up capital for a business of his own. He is the boy who is taken into the firm or some day surprises his friends by handing up his own shining. Every ambitious boy should have a savings account and the Young Trust Company is a mighty good place for a young man to make a start, because all his life he will find the service of that institution a very help. One dollar opens an account at the "Young"—Four per cent interest.—Adv.

Are Licensed to Wed.
Edward B. Martin and Bessie Halle, both of Connelville, and M. Halle of Connelville, and Edith M. Bowley of Uniontown, were granted marriage licenses in Uniontown yesterday.

CHILDREN PERFORM

Parochial School Pupils Give a Splendid Program at Colonial Theatre.
"The Irish Governess," presented yesterday afternoon in the Colonial Theatre by the children of the Immaculate Conception school attracted a large audience. Despite the fact that it was a children's matinee, many older persons were in attendance and showed their appreciation of the able work of the children by their generous applause. For the past several weeks the children under the direction of the Sisters, rehearsed for the entertainment, and their work yesterday afternoon showed very careful training. The entire program passed off without a hitch. The enunciation of the entire cast was clear and distinct, and their stage manner was pleasing and graceful.

"The Irish Governess" was preceded by a short program by the children of the different grades, the opening number being a chorus, "Happy Days are Coming," by R. F. Donnelly, J. Hunt, M. Gallagher, V. Cuneo, M. Hartz, N. Smith, C. McArdle, R. Desmont, E. Fether, M. Shilling, A. Coyne, A. White, L. Stillwagon, G. Stillwagon, V. Stillwagon, C. Menabio, E. Finger, E. Whaley, M. Cuneo, L. Dublin, A. Sullivan, A. Walsh, M. Noe, M. Keating, M. Kerrigan, H. Hart, C. Hickey, I. McGuire, M. Burns, M. Walsh, A. Duley, M. O'Hara, M. Portwell, M. Sullivan, M. Masanti, M. Maxwell, C. Tumme, J. McGuire, M. Cuneo, G. Becher, A. Eagan, M. Fether, L. McGuire, A. Schuler, R. Lohan, J. Zimmerman, F. Hines, T. Murphy, L. Trawdzak, G. Gahaghy. The next number was the merry dances, followed by a song, "The Tail Top Hat," by twenty small boys about 6 years old and under. A song, "What Would You Take For Me, Papa," was delightfully rendered by 11 girls. The last number of the children's program was a club drill by 16 boys. The work of the children was exceptionally clever. They were perfectly drilled and they are deserving of great credit for their capable work.

The presentation of a drama, "The Irish Governess," in three acts followed. The cast is to be congratulated on their excellent work.

The entertainment will be held this evening at 8 o'clock sharp. The advance sale of seats has been unusually large and from all indications the theatre will be full. The entertainment is among the best ever held by the school and all who attend this evening are promised an evening of enjoyment.

The Best Treatment for Itching Scalps, Dandruff and Falling Hair

To stop itching and irritation of the scalp, prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove dandruff, scales and dandruff, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, the following special treatment is most effective, agreeable and economical. On retiring, comb the hair out straight all around, then begin at the side and make a parting, gently rubbing Cuticura ointment into the parting with a bit of soft flannel held over the end of the finger. Anoint additional partings about half an inch apart until the whole scalp has been treated. The purpose being to get the Cuticura ointment on the scalp skin rather than on the hair. The next morning shampoo with Cuticura soap and hot water. Shampoo also may be used as often as agreeable, but once or twice a month is generally sufficient for this special treatment for women's hair. Cuticura soap and ointment sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 25c. skin book. Address "Cuticura," Dept. 3, Boston.

Send—Tender-faced men shave in comfort with Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Cupid rode to victory when the American polo team defeated England recently. His secret is now out in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Nancy G. Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steele of New York and Westbury, N. Y., to Devonius Milburn, the famous polo player. The news of the engagement came as a surprise, as few outside of the immediate families of the young couple knew that a deeper sentiment than a mutual interest in sports existed between them. The engagement, however, is said to have existed for some time, having been kept a secret until the international polo games had been played. Miss Steele's father is a member of the firm of J. P. & Co. Mr. Milburn is a member of the Meadowbrook, the Aero and the Racket and Tennis Clubs. He was graduated from Oxford in 1903 and from Harvard in 1905. He was a star of the American polo team in England in 1909 and again in 1910 and distinguished himself in the last international series. He has long been noted for his daring horsemanship.

COLDS AFFECT THE KIDNEYS

Many Connellsville People Have Found This to be True. Are you watched in bad weather? Does every cold settle on your kidneys?

Does your back ache and become weak?

Are urinary passages irregular and distressing?

These symptoms are cause to suspect kidney weakness.

Weakened kidneys need quick help. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for weakened kidneys.

Connellsville people recommend them.

Mrs. E. Knight, Francis Ave., Connellsville, Pa., says: "For ten years kidney trouble kept me in misery and the pains in the small of my back were at times almost unbearable. It was lame when I got up in the morning and the least work tired me. Headaches and dizzy spells were common and often my sight blurred. Whenever I caught cold, it settled in my kidneys and I was annoyed by the kidney secretions. Having Doan's Kidney Pills recommended, I commenced using them, and in a few weeks they relieved me. Two boxes made a cure and I have had no cause for complaint since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Atkin; reading, Miss Martha Ellenberger, Elk Lake; duet, Mrs. J. B. Cooper and Mrs. J. S. Miller; address, Rev. D. S. Kutz, son, "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name"; 1:30 P. M., selection by quartette; address, Reverend Ellenberger; readings by Mrs. C. E. Staller and Miss Ellenberger; song, "God Be With You." A large attendance is expected.

Complaint.

"You are always complaining about the taxpayer."

"Yes, I sympathize with the masses."

"How much do you pay in the way of taxes?"

"My dear sir, that has nothing to do with the case. The man who is paying a whole lot of taxes is usually so busy that he hasn't time to do his own complaining."—Washington Star.

Breaks Record With Woman.

Astoria Perryon, with a woman passenger, at Versailles, France, ascended in a monoplane to a height of 16,969 feet, or three and one-tenth miles, establishing a new world's record for altitude. Perryon also holds the world's altitude record for an airplane carrying only a pilot, having risen to a height of 10,850 feet at Buc on March 13 this year.

FOREIGN BORN WOMEN.

How They May Become Naturalized, Married or Single.

A foreign born unmarried woman may become a citizen by being naturalized. To do this she must be twenty-one years of age and have lived five years in this country, one full year of which has been lived in the state in which she makes her application. Or she can marry a man who is a citizen, for the wife's citizenship follows the husband, and she continues to retain her citizenship if she continues to reside in the United States, unless she renounces the sovereignty of the United States.

A foreign born woman living in the United States whose husband is a foreigner, who refuses to become naturalized, cannot become a citizen unless separated from him by divorce or death.

A native born woman who marries a foreigner loses her citizenship during the time of the married relation, but upon the death of her husband or divorce from him she may resume her citizenship by registering, within one year with the American consul in the country of her residence a declaration that she desires to do so, or she may resume it by returning to the United States to reside.—New York Post.

OUR WOMEN PRETTIEST.

French Artist Declares American Girls Are Worldbeaters.

Paul Helleu, the famous French artist, says American women are the most beautiful in the world. He has lately returned to Paris after a visit to America, and his opinion on the subject is decided. He is making an album of the prettiest women in Paris, New York, London and Buenos Aires.

"Among the American women," the artist said recently, "we find the greatest quality of beauty. Beauty is common to them. In every class, in society and in the factories, we find that their good looks prevail. They are as well dressed as Parisians and far healthier.

"To find a pretty woman in Paris one must go in search of her. In America she is to be seen everywhere."

FROG IS SOME BASS SINGER.

Imitates Locomotive Whistle and Has Eyes "Big as Teacups."

A giant frog in Willis creek, just east of Hyndman, Pa., has caused consternation among the trainmen on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad because of his ability to imitate the deep toned whistles on the freight engines.

The deep throated call of the frog has "called in" several flagmen, and wrecks were narrowly averted. J. W. Fleagle, who saw the big frog, declares he stands two feet high and has eyes as big as teacups.

China is progressing. First prosecution for bigamy in the history of the country has just been tried in Shanghai, and the man got eighty days.

TRAINS AND SCHEDULES.

The railroads are being taken into court every day because shippers are not satisfied with their rates, and it seems just as impossible for the railroads to satisfy the public with their passenger service. The new schedule of the Western Maryland railroad stops all trains at Meyersdale, yet the Meyersdale Republican denounces it in unmeasured terms and threatens all manner of reprisals. It says:

"Much dissatisfaction with the new Western Maryland passenger schedule which went into effect last Sunday is expressed by people living along the line in Somerset county. The new fast through trains put on between Baltimore and Chicago make but two stops between Cumberland and Conneltsville, namely at Frostburg and Meyersdale. No particular fault would be found with this had the local passenger train which runs a daily round trip between Cumberland and Conneltsville not been taken off. A mixed train consisting of an old passenger coach or two hitched onto the end of a local freight has been the plan.
This does not please the local passenger who, when the road was in course of construction, were led to expect better service. It is a question whether the company is not violating its charter by depriving the local population of convenient transportation facilities.

"Apparently the company does not wish to encourage local passenger traffic. Although the road has been open to traffic since October 1st, the public is kept in better view of its passenger schedule. Not a line in regard to the time of arrival and departure of trains has ever been vouchsafed to the public through the medium of the local papers. Leaders of the local papers look in vain for the time table of the Western Maryland in their columns. No official schedule has ever been furnished the local papers. Even the station agents do not seem to know much about the train service of the new road.

"During the present week, The Republican was solicited by an enterprising freight agent of the Western Maryland railroad for a share of the patronage of the paper. Our paper supplies, materials, etc., have heretofore been coming to us exclusively by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and will continue to do so until the passenger department of the rival road makes up and demonstrates that it is more than a fair competitor.
It is a commendation of the traveling public,
it is our opinion, also, that local business men generally will give the Western Maryland this freight business before it gives an adequate local passenger service.

"While we are not prepared to say that the Western Maryland is violating its charter in not running more and better local passenger trains over its Connellsville division, or to justify the threat of our contemporary to boycott the road, we do feel a sincere and common sense in its comments on the refusal of the Western Maryland to publish its train schedule in the newspapers.

"The Western Maryland is in this respect only following the rule of all the railroads, but it has always seemed to us to be a poor rule even from the standpoint of railroad interest. A brief statement of the time of the arrival and departure of trains would cost the railroads no more, and perhaps not so much, as they now spend for time cards and folders which are seen and read by a relatively small proportion of the public.

"The public looks to the newspaper columns for general information and for years they were accustomed to look there for special information of this character. We sincerely believe it would be profitable for the railroads to have their look there, not when they want to find out what train or railroad they want to travel on.

with the deficit. If this were the law, candidates for county auditor would have to be roped and tied and run as without their knowledge or consent.

Mathematics and athletics seem to bear a close relationship in the Conneltsville high school. The mental utilization of the teachers should be their first qualification. There is no objection to them being athletes in body as well as in brain, but there should be no prejudice in favor of the muscle. In order to avoid all possible dangers of mixing the two to the detriment of the greater, perhaps it would be better to adopt the original suggestion of The Courier and hire a physical director.

Nepotism is one of the worst sins of official life. It is more pernicious than the insidious lobby.

If the Legislature remains in session long enough one of the bills it should pass without delay is that regulating the sale of bicloride of mercury tablets. They have become too popular all at once.

Just when the Pennsylvania Legislature will adjourn is still a mystery.

The medical inspection of public schools is a public blessing, and we have no doubt the medical fraternity of Conneltsville has enough public spirit to be willing to contribute within reasonable limits and at reasonable charges their time and skill to this purpose. This matter is a great deal more important than some other things in the school course. Athletics, for example, are encouraged in the schools. Healthy children make successful athletes.

The small pupils will walk this winter. It looks as if some members of the school board will walk later.

The Senate seems to be rubbing it in on the House at Harrisburg.

This has been a great session of the Pennsylvania Legislature. The talk has been very generous and uplifting, but the action has been very meagre and disappointing.

The Legislative Probe finally took to the woods, but the insidious sandwich and the pernicious mineral water remain.

Harrisburg seems to be very much in doubt.

Connellsville is getting some illumination on the light question.

The Harrisburg Howlans are not half so cocky as they were a couple of months ago.

The Pennsylvania Bar Association is at Cape May laying down the rule in Shelley's case to the oyster and getting points from the lockward crab on the law of injunctions.

The West Penn keeps inching out in the Conneltsville coal region to the end that the Common People won't have to foot it.

When the Lobby Probe reached Representative Goss of Fayette county he named the Anti-Slavery League as the most pernicious and persistent lobbyists at Harrisburg. They made threats as well as promises.

Westward the course of present immigration takes its way.

It should be remembered that transmission-grabbers are seldom philanthropists.

The legislative probe is getting as common as the feminine hat pin.

The Fayette county divorce court is still several laps ahead.

Connellsville has an ample sewerage system, but the mains were never intended to float beer kegs to the river.

POPULATION.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash."

Population is the chief end of American cities. Population consists solely and entirely of people. American cities collect people as misers collect dollars.

All dollars look alike to misers,
and all people look alike to the city which is pining to cross the 100,000 mark in the next census.

If a city can collect enough crippled, anemic, underfed and unwashed babies together, with the non-descript parents of the same, to boost its population figures 5,000, it is pleased and proud as if it was doing something to make these folks white.

When a city has doubled its population in ten years, the whole country applauds and exclaims, "Verily, here is another Chicago. Let us go higher and grow up with it."

And yet half of the people in that city may wish they were dead.

Population is the chief curse of the American city. If the census figures could be suppressed they would have to measure success in some other way. If we didn't have any censuses American cities might some day be bragging of their per capita wages and savings bank deposits. Commercial clubs might be jeering factories which ground up workmen too quickly and Chicago might some day boast that it didn't have a house without a bath-tub.
Nobody is proud of a house with two families in each room. Yet when a city has acquired 50,000 extra population which cannot read English, and live in tenements, in which one wash bowl has to do for a whole wedding precinct, it looks with scorn upon the slow old burg down the line which has built nine new churches and a municipal playground

"When a city has doubled its population in ten years," but can only show a 10 per cent increase of population.
American cities will not be worth while until they forest population and remember their people.

The Way

To Succeed.

Paraphrasing the words of Horace Greeley, "The way to succeed is to advertise." There is scarcely a notable commercial success that has not been built upon the solid foundation of advertising, and, likewise, practically all good, clean, honest business that advances legitimately is successful.

Whenever you see a manufacturer co-operating with the retailers of this city or a group of cities or of all the cities in the United States in an advertising campaign on behalf of his merchandise you may safely make up your mind to three things—

First, the merchandise has merit.

Second, both the manufacturer and the merchant are progressive, dependable people with whom to do business.

Third, they are successful and merit your confidence and patronage.

Manufacturers are beginning to understand that the only way to create actual "over-the-counter" demand for a product is to advertise it locally—in daily newspapers.

NEWS OF THE DAY AS GATHERED UP ABOUT SCOTSDALE

Charles Horne, a Little Boy, Victim of Painful Accident.

LOST FOUR TOES OF RIGHT FOOT

Funeral of Woman Killed by Train Was Held Tuesday Morning;
First Band Concert of Season Draws
a Big Crowd; Other Notes of News.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, June 25.—Charles Horne, aged seven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Horne, was struck by a street car while on the Scottdale-Everest road Monday afternoon, on his way home from school, where he had been in company with another boy, Vernon Laddow. It is said the two were coming along the bridge and a cloud of smoke coming up through the bridge from an engine on one of the railroad tracks under the bridge blinded the two children and they could not see where they were going, and not over five feet that the car struck the little boy. The smoke also prevented the motorist from seeing ahead at that place. The injured boy was picked up and rushed to the Mount Pleasant hospital, where it was necessary to amputate four toes of the boy's right foot. The boy also suffered severe contusions of the body and some scalp wounds. He is a son of Frank Horne, the mill man, living on South Chestnut street.

FUNERAL TUESDAY.
The funeral of Mrs. Mary Kramarsky, wife of Michael Kramarsky of Everest, who was killed on the Pennsylvania railroad Monday, took place from the Polish Church at Everest on Tuesday morning. It is said that the woman was standing on the northbound track at the crossing below the school house waiting for a freight train to pass on the next track and did not see the approach of the passenger train. The engine whistled and was unable to stop the train when he saw the woman.

BAND CONCERT.
The first free concert by the Grand Army Band for the summer was given at Leaks park before a large and appreciative crowd on Monday evening, with Leader J. Frank Hardy in charge. Among the players was C. L. Elmer who was a member and leader of the Grand Army Band when it was organized more than a score of years ago and who does not appear with them very often, playing an alto.

WERE VISITING.
Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Springer and Miss Sophia Price returned from Irwin on Sunday evening, after the latter had been visiting for a few days, and had come on the boat excursion which the Presbyterian Church arranged from McKeesport. They were visiting at the home of Mr. Springer's brother, James Springer.

AT PUNTSBURG TOWN.
Chief Edward McCallin and Robert Hall, Jr., of the Scottdale Volunteer Fire Department, were at Puntsburg on Sunday evening, attending the meeting of the executive committee preparing for the convention in August. They were well pleased with the town and volunteer fire department.

A HANDSOME TEAM.
Many complimentary remarks are made on the team of duns with white manes and tails that William Ferguson recently purchased in South Dakota. The horses are brothers, perfect matches and the handsome team, many declare, ever brought to town, their color being different from the most of the horses seen in this section of the country. They will be used in the harness and for a carriage team.

A Stirring Story of Military Adventure and of a Strange Wartime Wooing, Founded on the Great Play of the Same Name

By BRONSON HOWARD AND HENRY TYRRELL

COPYRIGHT, 1912, BY G. PUTNAM'S SONS.

The old warehouse of the Libbys, down on Carey street, near the James River, was the largest structure of its kind in Richmond. It was a vast, dimly lit, four-story red brick building, with nothing but naked walls, bare timbers and low rafters drying toms, whose small windows were not intended primarily to admit light. A few iron bars on these windows and a dimmy partition here and there to divide the floor space into "rooms," had sufficed to transform the pungent smelling old shell into a capacious military prison for Federal captives whose official rank saved them from the unsheltered pens and stockades of Belle Isle or of Salisbury and Andersonville further south.

Only officers were housed in Libby prison, and most of the time there were from 1,500 to 2,000 mooley, ragged, pale faced men, plaining their cramped and squalid and liable to be shot down ruthlessly if they crossed a "dead line" within two or three feet of the barred windows. Some of these poor fellows listlessly carved crucifixes and wooden toys with their jackknives; others played cards squatted on the floor or checked on these same rough, unswept planks. All hoped against hope and conversed endlessly on two topics—"exchange" and "escape."

Letters from home were rare, gifts and provisions still rarer. Nevertheless some fortuitous combination of Playing Cards For Scraps of Tobacco, circumstances and outcropping of ordinary human kindness did on certain memorable occasions permit a suit of clothes or a box of sweets and other contraband to escape Confederate censors' scrutiny and get past the drawbridge of the military police.

One of these occasions that brought seasonable relief to a certain lot of Libby occurred just before the date of national Thanksgiving, in the latter part of November.

The blood red rays of sunset were streaming through the one small, high, grained window that lighted a bare room where some men were dejectedly playing cards for scraps of tobacco, while others sat around on rough benches and watched or smoked or dozed. One who was either sick or wounded lay on a couch, with a coarse blanket over him. Two or three of the card players joined their unmelodious voices in crooning an old fashioned Methodist hymn.

"That's right, boys," said the hymn leader, an unctuous looking Hoosier whom they addressed sometimes as "chaplain" and again as "deacon," "cheer up a bit. If you can't be cheerful, be as cheerful as you can. Think—think of your heavenly home."

"Too far off," muttered Captain Cox, a Kentuckian.

"Well, then, think of your earthly home—of the apple trees in blossom when you left it, of the afternoon sunlight fallin' on it this minute out there in Kentucky or Ohio or wherever it is. Mine's in Indiana, thank God! I remember when I was—"

"Deacon," protested the sick man, "I'm not feeling very chipper today."

"Oh, you'll come round all right. Tomorrow's Thanksgiving. As I was saying—"

"That's what poor Ralph's friend of, deacon," interposed Captain Cox. "Macon's in what's killing him, and I'll leave it to you if the novelty isn't lost state worse of those endless reminiscences of the time when you used to be—"

"Rear admiral on the Wabash canal," chimed the chorus.

"All right, boys, poke all the fun at me you like, smile me on the other cheek. You know I'm meek and lowly. Pass this hand of cards anyway. But Warner," urged Cox. "We're used to it—haven't got feelings any more you know. What's the news?"

"Oh, some more fighting in the valley, you know. Yanks licked out of their boots again, as usual. More prisoners, more hard luck stories."

"What's that?" cried Deacon Hart. "Another fight? More prisoners? Oh, Lord!"

"You're on the religious, aren't you?" inquired the commissary scoldingly.

"I'm a shouting Methodist these forty years, thank the Lord," answered the deacon, holding his hand of cards behind his back.

"Well, your shouting hasn't benefited Abe Lincoln nor yourself very much so far. You'd better swing around and pray for Jeff Davis, I reckon, and be on the safe side."

"Never till this right hand"—putting out his left with the cards, then juggling it back and holding up the tight—"shall lose its cunning."

"Oh, go ahead, deacon, and pray for Jeff Davis if they want you to," suggested Cox. "He'll need it before this war's over."

"You can talk with your friends just from the front about that," retorted Warner gruffly. "Here's one of 'em coming upstairs now."

A measured tramp was heard approaching outside. The commissary opened the door, and the new Union prisoner was marched in between two guards. He saluted and introduced himself.

"Gentlemen, permit me. I am Colonel Cogswell of the Forty-second New York."

"The Tammany regiment of New York city?" exclaimed Lieutenant Bedloe, sotto voce.

Captain Cox returned the newcomer's salute and responded.

"We have heard of you, colonel, and we are right proud to meet you. My comrades here are Captain Hunt of Kentucky, Chaplain Hart of Indiana and Lieutenant Bedloe, from—why, from your own state, I believe. I am Captain Cox of the Tenth Kentucky."

Colonel Cogswell shook hands all around and said:

"I am fortunate to have the honor of sharing your quarters. I don't suppose you find it exactly lonesome here."

"The place is quite populous. It seems as if the forces of war had picked out the tower of our army to pine away in infernal holes like this. Oh, for an hour of action!"

"Just wait till the exchange," said the hopeful Hart. "With a dozen men like us they might redeem a whole Confederate regiment."

"I understand," said Ralph Hunt gloomily. "That's their idea is to get the well kept Confederate prisoners back from the Union camps and send us as living skeletons in exchange."

"Do you think, Colonel Cogswell," asked Cox, "that things are going as badly with us in the valley and elsewhere as they try to make out?"

"Yes, and a slight worse, I should say, at the present moment."

"Then," interposed Hart tragically, "all is lost save honor."

The colonel drew himself up proudly.

"General Winder, the provost marshal of Richmond."

glanced around to make sure that the commissary and guard had retired then with a superb dramatic gesture opened the coat of his uniform which had been tightly buttoned up to his chin, and displayed the stars and stripes wrapped around his body.

"Not all lost, sir. Our colors, by 'God!"

The prisoners rushed forward, their eyes bulging and cheeks glowing with patriotic ardor. Even poor Hunt rose excitedly from his couch.

"Three cheers, boys," cried Cox. "All together—let her go!"

They gave a rousing round of cheers that brought Captain Warner rushing back into the room.

"Come, come, gentlemen! Remember where you are. This ain't Washington. What are you feeling so ornery about?"

"We were just welcoming an old friend," explained Cox.

"And besides, cap," interposed Hart, "ain't this Thanksgiving eve? How about them pumpkin pies we ordered and paid for in good United States money?"

"That's a fact," answered the commissary. "Well, the cook tackled 'em, according to directions. They ought to be pretty high done by this time. Querer grub, that."

At this juncture the door opened and immediately a "joyous commotion ensued."

"Pie, pie! Oh, pumpkin pie! Attention, all! Salute the pastry! Let the noble pumpkin approach its doom with military honors!"

The prisoners drew up in line opposite Captain Warner, while in marched a dignified old negress with a red bandanna turban on her head, bearing aloft in both hands a platter containing an enormous pie. This she solemnly deposited on the table, then turned and made her exit to silence, saluted profoundly by the company.

"Chaplain Hart will ask a blessing—will you join us, Captain Warner?"

"No, thank you," replied the commissary, making his exit. "The atmosphere's getting too Yankeeified to suit me, and I'll beg to be excused."

Knife in hand, Hart stood in an attitude of devotion at the head of the table.

"All I can say is, Lord bless this 'ere pie"—then us an expression of horror and disgust overspread his homely face—"and the Lord help us after we've eaten it! Why, darn my skin, if they ain't gone and put an upper crust on a pumpkin pie! And the pumpkin cut into hunks as big as your fist, without no milk nor sugar, and not half baked neither."

"The devil! Those Virginia darkies are good cooks, but they don't know what pumpkin pie is."

"You can talk with your friends just from the front about that," retorted Warner gruffly. "Here's one of 'em coming upstairs now."

A measured tramp was heard approaching outside. The commissary opened the door, and the new Union prisoner was marched in between two guards. He saluted and introduced himself.

"The place is quite populous. It seems as if the forces of war had picked out the tower of our army to pine away in infernal holes like this. Oh, for an hour of action!"

"Just wait till the exchange," said the hopeful Hart. "With a dozen men like us they might redeem a whole Confederate regiment."

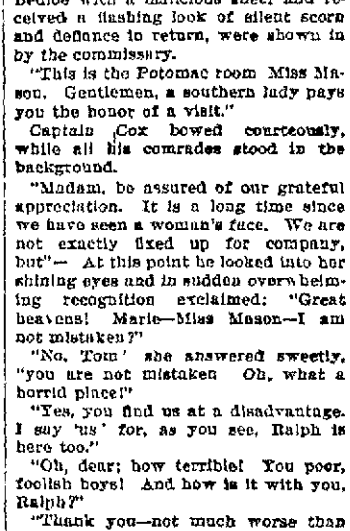

"I understand," said Ralph Hunt gloomily. "That's their idea is to get the well kept Confederate prisoners back from the Union camps and send us as living skeletons in exchange."

"Do you think, Colonel Cogswell," asked Cox, "that things are going as badly with us in the valley and elsewhere as they try to make out?"

"Yes, and a slight worse, I should say, at the present moment."

"Then," interposed Hart tragically, "all is lost save honor."

The colonel drew himself up proudly.

"Major Paul Revere, Thirtieth Massachusetts."

Deacon Hart carved the pie and distributed slabs all around, remarking philosophically:

"The blacks must be freed and educated. Think of a whole race in such benighted ignorance as this!"

The attack had scarcely begun when Captain Warner once more appeared at the door, making a sign which all the imprisoned officers instantly understood.

"Sir up the animals, boys!" whispered Hart. "Visitors coming."

"Put 'em out, too," added Cox, looking out.

A pretty, vivacious young woman, escorted by a sinister looking Confederate officer, who singled out Lieutenant Bedloe with a malicious sneer and received a flashing look of silent scorn and defiance to return, were shown in by the commissary.

"This is the Potomac room. Miss Mason, gentlemen, a southern lady pays you the honor of a visit."

Captain Cox bowed courteously, while all his comrades stood in the background.

"Madam, be assured of our grateful appreciation. It is a long time since we have seen a woman's face. We are not exactly fixed up for company, but—"

At this point he looked into her shining eyes and in sudden overbearing recognition exclaimed: "Great heavens! Marie—Miss Mason—I am not mistaken!"

"No, Tom," she answered sweetly. "You are not mistaken. Oh, what a horrid place!"

"Yes, you find us at a disadvantage. I say 'us' for, as you see, Ralph is here too."

"Oh, dear, how terrible! You poor, foolish boys! And how is it with you, Ralph?"

"Thank you—not much worse than when I parted from you at Lexington."

"What a pair of rash, headstrong boys! Why did you desert the south?" "Wasn't it the south that did the deserting? Oh, but don't let us talk politics."

"It just breaks my heart to see you here, both of you—yes, all of you," said the young woman, looking around sympathetically. Then she took from under her cloak a cigar box and a couple of bottles wrapped in a newspaper and set them on the table beside the sorry looking wreck of the pumpkin pie. "I've brought you a few cigars and things to cheer you up. Wasn't I thoughtful?"

"Bless your pretty face and gentle heart, miss," Deacon Hart said fervently. "What a pity you're seceded!"

"Well, she seems to lean toward the Union side anyway," whispered Colonel Cogswell, as Captain Cox and the fair visitor conversed in low, earnest tones, with their heads very close together.

The Union men had gradually dropped behind the screen of a wooden partition at the far end of the room, while Captain Warner and the other Confederate officer stood just outside the door.

"Why, they have all gone," said the young woman, blushing slightly.

"Yes, we do that when any one has a visitor. Marie, we are alone for a moment."

She buried her face in her handkerchief and began to weep.

"To think we should meet again like this!"

"You didn't come here just to say that Marie. You are sickle, but not deliberately cruel!"

"It is you who are cruel, when you talk like that—Oh, Tom! You know I love you."

"Do it! How?"

"I have come here to save you."

"To save me?"

"Yes—or to tell you how you can be saved, I think. General Winder is coming."

"General Winder, the provost marshal of Richmond? You say he is coming here to Libby prison?"

"Yes, right now—this evening. I coaxed him to get me permission for this little visit first. You know he is an old friend of father's, and he wouldn't refuse me anything."

"Then, there's something in the wind?"

"It's an exchange of prisoners, I think. Anyway, I heard some talk about selecting six officers from your room here. It must be for exchange. You shall be one of the six, Tom."

"And Hunt?"

"Yes, poor Ralph too. That's what I told General Winder. He shook his head and looked very serious, but I know he won't refuse me this, especially as it makes no difference to him whom he selects."

"Good for you, Marie! What can I say to you, now?"

"Hush, they are coming!" she said, pointing to the door.

"Then, goodby, Marie! God bless you!"

"I'm sorry," interrupted Captain Warner, "but the time is up."

The girl smiled jauntily through her tears.

"Oh, dear! Goodby, Tom. Goodby, Ralph. Gentlemen, goodby, all of you. I'm so sorry! But you'll try and make the best of it, won't you?"

"Of course we will, bless your kind little heart," responded Colonel Cogswell, coming forward again. "And let me tell you, mademoiselle, you've completed the Johannes' work—by capturing our hearts!"

"Three cheers for the American girl, anyhow!" proposed Hart.

They were given with a will, and Marie Mason, going out with honors, was rejoined by Captain Edward Thomson of the Confederacy's secret service, who had watched the scene with a peculiarly cynical smile.

General Winder, provost marshal of Richmond, in full uniform and accompanied by a staff officer, entered and stood at the head of the rough table.

General Winder then briefly announced the intelligence that a Confederate cruiser having fallen into the hands of the Federal authorities, the latter proposed putting the officers and crew on trial for piracy, threatening them with summary execution.

"Under these circumstances," continued the general, "the Confederate States government has felt constrained to give notice that we will hold an equal number of Union men of corresponding rank, chosen from among the prisoners at present in our hands here in Richmond as hostages, to be dealt with in the same manner as Mr. Lincoln shall decide to deal with those of our compatriots now in his power."

"My requisition calls for six officers out of perhaps four times that number from this division. Are there six among you who, knowing the gravity of the situation—and I do not deceive you as to its import—are there six among you, I say, who are willing to offer themselves as hostages?"

Every Union man in the room stepped forward, including Ralph Hunt, who arose feebly from his couch.

General Winder was visibly affected at the manifestation, but he pretended to be only perplexed and annoyed.

"What! All of you? But I only asked for six. I see that some definite plan of selection will have to be followed. You shall draw lots."

He took out his notebook, tore some slips of paper from it and directed Captain Warner to pass them around and have each man write his name on one. The slips were then all placed in a hat, from which Captain Cox was unanimously chosen to draw out six names. He did so, one at a time, handing each slip to Captain Warner without looking at it. Warner read the names aloud, and the general repeated them after him, at the same time writing them down in his notebook. They were as follows:

"Major Paul Revere, Thirtieth Massachusetts."

"Colonel Alfred Wood, Fourteenth New York."

"Lieutenant Frank Bedloe, — Pennsylvania."

"Colonel Michael Corcoran, Sixty-ninth New York."

"Captain Alfred Ely, Thirty-seventh New York."

"Captain Ralph Hunt, Tenth Kentucky."

Instantly upon the completion of this list Captain Cox spoke up and said:

"General, the last name I have drawn by an unhappy fatality is that of my old friend and comrade, Captain Ralph Hunt. He is a sick man go in his place."

While General Winder was deliberating his reply a woman's scream was heard outside the door, and Marie Mason rushed wildly in.

MEREDITH NICHOLSON, THE POPULAR NOVELIST, DECLINES DIPLOMATIC POST.

Meredith Nicholson, the Indiana novelist will not go to Lisbon as the new American representative to Portugal. This is a late picture of him, and the scene below his portrait was taken in Portugal's stormy capital, showing the soldiers patrolling the streets to prevent threatened outbreaks of the imperialists. Mr. Nicholson is known widely by such of his novels as "The House of a Thousand Candles," "The Port of Missing Men," and "The Siege of the Seven Sisters." While Mr. Nicholson's name was sent to the Senate by President Wilson to be minister to Portugal, the Hoosier novelist declined to accept the honor.

Exciting Finishes of Principal Races

By College Crews at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

You're "in at the finish," pictorially speaking, when you look at these views of the most tense moments in the famous rowing classic of the year, the annual intercollegiate boat race held on the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. The top picture shows Syracuse (A) crossing the finish line, which is indicated by dashes, half a boat's length ahead of Cornell, in the varsity eight race, the principal event of the day. The others finished in the order shown in the picture, indicated as follows: (1) Washington, (2) Wisconsin and (3) Columbia. Pennsylvania was a poor sixth and did not get in the picture. In the lower illustration is shown the finish of the freshman eight, as follows: 1, Cornell; 2, Wisconsin; 3, Syracuse. The others struggled in later.

VETERAN KILLED BY BOLT

Lightning Hits Old Soldier Preparing for Big Reunion.
WAYNESBURG, June 25.—While returning home from this place, where he had purchased a new uniform of blue and an outfit to have been worn at the Gettysburg reunion early next month, Abiliah Scott, a well-known retired farmer and a veteran of the Civil War, of Hargus Creek, aged 75, was struck by lightning and instantly killed yesterday afternoon.

Scott had been given a "big" by a neighbor, John Black, and they were near the home of the former when a heavy electric storm came up suddenly. The occupants of the car sought protection on a covered bridge. Besides ending the life of the veteran, the lightning also killed Black's horse. The owner of the rig was stunned temporarily, and when revived by the air, he drove the dead veteran to his home. Scott is survived by a son and two daughters.

A Cold Frame for Fall.

It is really remarkable what results can be had in the garden long after the frost comes, by the use of a properly built cold frame. The most satisfactory frame we have used is made in sections, three by six feet—the number of sections to be used depending on how much space you want to devote to late plants.

The cold frame is nothing more than four boards nailed together to make the sides, and it should slope slightly toward the south. This is then covered with sash, made of light wood, covered with cloth. Water proof material may be gotten for this flatter from most of the large seed stores, and is preferable on account of its durability.

Success with cold frames in the fall depends on getting your plant well rooted before the frosts come. A good plan is to build your frame work, and a good size would be six by twelve feet. This would require four cloth frames to cover it, and the total expense should not exceed five dollars for materials. Inside this enclosure can be planted any late summer vegetables that you want to raise. If the sun is particularly hot, put the cover frames on during the middle of the day, but otherwise just give the plants the same attention you would if planted in the spring.

When danger of frost is at hand, put the cover frames on every night, taking them off in the morning, but when the weather gets still colder, leave these cover frames on all the time. You will be surprised at the excellent crop of late vegetables you will have when all your neighbors' gardens are desolate.

If you want to have vegetables all through the winter, you must replace the cloth frames with glass about November 1, and by this means some of the hardier plants, like radishes, beets, string beans and onions, can be had practically all winter, though it will probably be well for winter use to bank your frame all around with fresh horse manure, which would turn your cold frame into a hot frame.

Among the flowers, violets, pansies, English daisies and primroses all will grow well during the winter in a cold frame covered with glass.
